

Boston Sunday Globe

Serving our community since 1872

JULY 19, 2026

After tense lead-in, World Cup delivered

The beer flowed, as did money from fans

450,000 fans attended games

50,000 Scottish fans attended

45% rise in spending at Boston bars and restaurants in first two weeks of games

By Chris Serres and Michael Silverman
GLOBE STAFF

Earlier this year, months before the Scots arrived to drink Boston dry and spirit away the city's collective anxieties over the approaching World Cup, Mike Loynd stared down the world's biggest sporting event and wondered: Can we actually pull this off?

The obstacles stacked against his tiny organizing team, the Boston Soccer 2026 host committee, were massive. They were "running on fumes," as he called it, short on cash and facing relentless deadlines. A high-stakes scramble to lock down $20 million in vital assistance from the State House had left Loynd, president of the committee, feeling an "overwhelming" amount of pressure.

Worse, the powerful Kraft family — the event's financial backstop — and FIFA — global soccer's notoriously domineering governing body — were locked in a bitter feud

WORLD CUP, Page A11

At the ocean's edge, a dream house no more

Cape property owner sues to void $4m mortgage

By Beth Teitell
GLOBE STAFF

Before he became known as the guy who paid $5.5 million for a house threatening to tumble into Cape Cod Bay — and, later, as "the plaintiff" — John G. Bonomi Jr. was just a man who had fallen in love with a piece of real estate.

The shingled house perched on the edge of a Wellfleet cliff had sunset and water views, an Instagram-worthy kitchen, and so many en-suite bathrooms you'd never get rid of houseguests.

And if grim and widely reported environmental assessments about "catastrophic erosion" and ongoing legal action made the price tag a little high — well, who among us hasn't ignored red flags and geotechnical engineers and listened instead to our hearts?

And that, dear reader, is the crux of John Bonomi v. JP Morgan Chase Bank, a case making

LAWSUIT, Page B4

'They don't know what they're doing.'

SEAN SMOOT, Illinois Law Enforcement Training and Standards Board

ICE tactics under fire from experts

Many say agents escalate traffic stops in violation of standard police protocols

By Emma Platoff
GLOBE STAFF

ICE's mission has long been controversial. But after agents killed two people in their cars over just one week, law enforcement professionals are raising a more fundamental concern about the agency's tactics: Immigration agents do not follow standard, consensus policing protocols, including the agency's own policy on traffic stops.

The common denominator among the two shooting deaths and other incidents that turned violent, these experts said, is Immigration and Customs Enforcement agents creating unnecessary risks during already volatile situations, when their target is inside a vehicle.

"They don't know what they're doing," said Sean Smoot, who chairs the Illinois Law Enforcement Training and Standards Board, citing videotaped examples of ICE bungling traffic stops in the last year and a half. "If they don't know what the rules are, and they aren't well-trained, ►Agent's second ex-wife says he's capable of 'extreme violence.' B1.

we're setting them up for disaster."

In the case of the shooting on Monday in Biddeford, Maine, "it appeared to be a well-trained ICE agent," said a source familiar with the case. ICE, Page A14

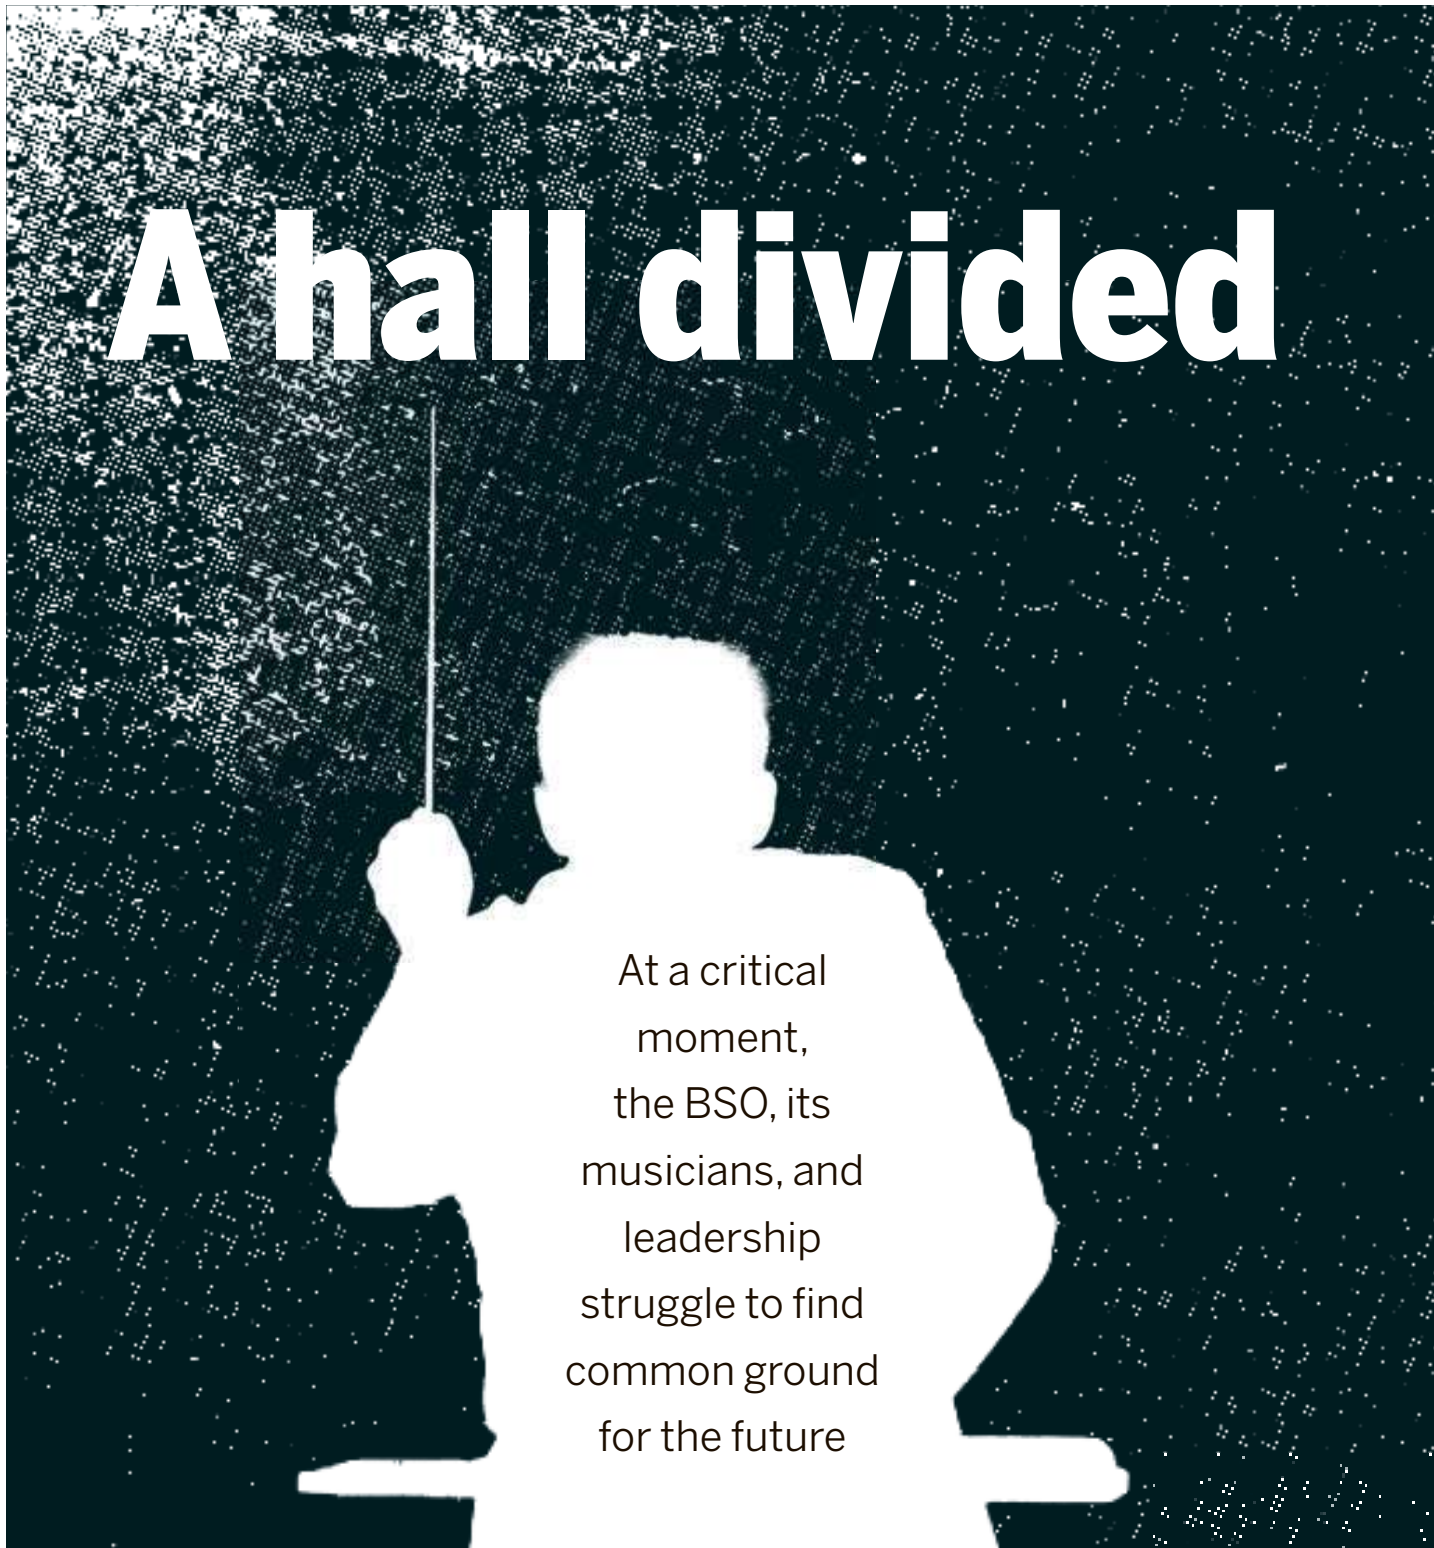

Photo illustration by Ashley Borg/Globe Staff; Photo by Robert Torres

A hall divided

At a critical moment, the BSO, its musicians, and leadership struggle to find common ground for the future

By Mark Shanahan, Malcolm Gay, and Meredith Goldstein
GLOBE STAFF

Two years. That's how long it's been since Andris Nelsons, conductor of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, has had a meaningful conversation with the orchestra's chief executive, Chad Smith. In fact, the two barely speak at all.

Symphony Hall, a marvel of acoustic excellence for 125 years, has continued to radiate elegant melodies, and audiences still gather on the lawns at Tanglewood to sip

Sancerre and delight in dreamy summer evenings of sweeping orchestral works.

But behind the music and traditions that make every BSO performance feel like an occasion, the ensemble is locked in a momentous struggle: How do you transform a beloved institution while preserving the legacy that made it special? Ordinarily, this clash — between tradition and innovation, past and future, old and new — is confined to discreet meetings behind closed doors. But today the conflict is on spectacular display in Boston, as the existential crisis of a

BSO, Page A12

US troops are killed in Jordan

They are the first US troop deaths due to direct Iranian fire since the opening days of the war. A2.

Claire Vaye Watkins's third novel, "Yellow Pine," follows a ragtag bunch of characters finding community in the Mojave. Books, N9.

Nigerian romance scams are not what you think. Ideas, K1.

That's a good one

Sunday: Sunny. High: 80-85. Low: 62-67.

Monday: Partly sunny. High: 79-84. Low: 64-69.

Sunrise: 5:24 Sunset: 8:16

Complete report, A22.

Deaths, A16-21.

VOL. 310, NO. 19

Suggested retail price
$6.00

Found it?
Own it!

30-YEAR FIXED RATE
RESIDENTIAL MORTGAGE

5.990% INTEREST RATE

6.119% APR*

Purchase or Refinance • ½ Point
Loans up to $2 Million*

APPLY ONLINE TODAY!

INSTITUTION FOR SAVINGS

BUILDING STRONGER COMMUNITIES TOGETHER SINCE 1820.

978-462-3106 • institutionforsavings.com

*APR denotes Annual Percentage Rate as of 7/16/26 and is based on a $300,000 purchase or no cash out refinance loan with minimum credit score of 720 and loan-to-value (LTV) ratio of 80% or less. LTVs available to 95% for qualified applicants. Rate is subject to change without notice. Unit cost per $1,000 borrowed is $5.99. Minimum loan amount is $100,000, maximum loan amount is $2 million. One to 4-family, owner-occupied residences only. Offer subject to credit approval. Property insurance required. Flood insurance required if the property is located in a FEMA Special Hazard Flood Zone. Monthly payment examples do not include escrow amounts for real estate taxes, Private Mortgage Insurance (PMI) and/or insurance, if applicable. This may increase payment amount. Other terms and conditions may apply. Member FDIC • Member DIF • NMLS ID. #2478201

Additional fees and LTV limits may apply for credit scores lower than 720, refinance loans, and 2-4 unit properties.