

Is your partner hoarding a secret pile of cash?

Find out if you should be saving for a divorce!

MONEY MAIL: PAGES 32-33

NOTORIOUS HACKERS 'BEHIND M&S CYBER RAID'

Retail giant calls in Scotland Yard as finger is pointed at gang that blackmails firms for millions

SCOTLAND Yard detectives are probing the devastating IT meltdown at M&S thought to be caused by teenage hackers.

A shadowy group operating under the name Scattered Spider was yesterday said to

By Emily Hawkins
Business Reporter

be behind the attack, which has crippled the retailer for more than a week.

The collective, thought to be made up of 1,000 mainly British and American youths and young men, has already gained global notoriety for a slew of attacks on major brands, with a cyber security expert warning it poses a 'sophisticated threat'.

Such criminal outfits typically demand up to £10million in ransom for returning full access to firms, say industry sources.

The Mail can now reveal the Metropolitan Police's cyber crime unit has been called in to investigate the crisis. No arrests

Turn to Page 4

Lady of the smiles: Kate's sun-kissed wedding anniversary

PAGE 9

Welcome: The princess on the Isle of Mull yesterday