

I'm 55 and have ADHD. I know my condition is real – even if my doctor father disagrees

SEE PAGES 20-21

Devastating 460-page dossier compiled by frontline nurses lays bare shocking reality of 'inhumane' hospital conditions

THE SHAME AND HORROR OF NHS CORRIDOR CARE

By Shaun Wooller
Health Editor

DEAD patients are lying undiscovered for hours in A&E because NHS staff are too overstretched to notice, a harrowing report reveals today.

A severe shortage of beds means the sick are also being left in 'animal-like' conditions in hospital car parks, cupboards and toilets.

Pregnant women are suffering miscarriages in corridors and the elderly are languishing unaided in soiled bedding, it adds.

The Royal College of Nursing today lays bare the tragic collapse of the NHS in a 460-page dossier, titled 'On the frontline of the UK's corridor care crisis'.

It features the testimonies of more than 5,000 nurses, who expose how patients are being cruelly 'stripped of their dignity' and routinely suffering avoidable deaths.

They say it has become 'normalised' for patients to be left for days at a time in chairs or trolleys in 'inappropriate settings', rather

Turn to Page 4

Wounded: Emily Damari was shot during the October 7 attack

New hope for Briton Emily as Israel and Hamas agree hostage deal

SEE PAGES 6 & 7