

KATE: My relief at being in remission from cancer

SEE PAGES 4-5

ANOTHER STARMER SHAMBLES

Just 24 hours after the PM insisted he had full confidence in her, Tulip Siddiq resigns over Mail's corruption probe revelations. So how secure is the crisis-hit Chancellor he also backed feeling today?

Yesterday's Daily Mail front page

ONE LAME DUCK DOWN!

TULIP Siddiq finally quit her Treasury post last night.

It came 26 days after the Mail revealed she was facing a major

By Claire Ellicott and Abul Taher

corruption probe in Bangladesh. The anti-corruption minister and close friend of Sir Keir Starmer resigned after he was effectively advised to sack her over her links to her aunt's regime in Dhaka.

Sir Laurie Magnus, the Prime Minister's ethics adviser, said it was 'regrettable' that she had not been more alert to the reputational risks of her family ties to the deposed former prime minister of Bangladesh.

He also described as regrettable her inability to produce conclusive

Turn to Page 2