

Mushroom murderer, the definitive inside story

Six-page special from our team in Australia plus a must-watch YouTube video and a smash-hit podcast

Triple killer:
Erin Patterson
in the back of a police van

For years we've given French a fortune while their police did nothing to stop Channel migrants. As President visits today

By David Barrett
and Jason Groves

EMMANUEL Macron flies into Britain today under huge pressure to finally crack the escalating small-boats crisis.

The French president will face questions over his country's failure to make a dent in illegal Channel crossings – despite being handed more than three quarters of a billion pounds of British taxpayers' money.

Arrival numbers are up 56 per cent so far this year compared with the same period in 2024, with 2,599 last week alone.

And a total of 172,255 small-boat migrants have reached Britain since the crisis began in 2018 – entirely under Mr Macron's presidency – with the vast majority departing from French beaches. Only 4 per cent have been deported.

Shadow Home Secretary Chris Philp said: 'We've paid France £771 million and they've stopped very few migrants on land and none at sea.'

'This is in contrast to Belgium where embarkations have dropped 90 per cent because they do intercept at sea. We should be asking France for a refund.'

Sir Keir Starmer and Mr Macron are due to hold a bilateral summit on Thursday at

Turn to Page 6

HAND BACK OUR £771 MILLION, MR MACRON... S'IL VOUS PLAÎT