

The Rise of the Beta Mom

REVIEW

WSJ

THE WALL STREET JOURNAL WEEKEND

The Golden Age of Bagels
OFF DUTY

DOW JONES

News Corp

SATURDAY/SUNDAY, MAY 9 - 10, 2026 ~ VOL. CCLXXXVII NO. 108

WSJ.com

★★★★ $6.00

What's News

Business & Finance

◆ The U.S. added 115,000 jobs in April across industries that included retail, transportation and warehousing, and healthcare, far exceeding analysts' expectations. A1

◆ Apple and Intel reached a preliminary deal for Intel to manufacture some of the chips that power Apple devices. A1

◆ Major U.S. stock indexes locked in weekly gains, with the S&P 500, Nasdaq and Dow rising 2.3%, 4.5% and 0.2%, respectively, for the stretch. B10

◆ Sony projected double-digit earnings growth for the fiscal year that began April 1, signaling resilience in its entertainment businesses. B9

◆ Wendy's same-restaurant sales in the U.S. fell 7.8% in the first quarter, while revenue beat a Wall Street consensus estimate. B9

◆ Toyota reported higher quarterly net profit but said it expects the Middle East conflict to take a toll on its bottom line this fiscal year. B9

◆ Commerzbank said it would cut as many as 3,000 roles and lifted financial targets as the lender resists a takeover bid by Italian rival UniCredit. B10

◆ Cocoa futures solidified their recent gains after investors moved quickly to cover short contracts. B10

Worldwide

◆ Virginia's highest court threw out Democrats' effort to draw more blue-leaning seats ahead of the midterm elections, a victory for Republicans as they try to retain their slim majority in the House of Representatives. A1

◆ Trump signed off on a plan to fire FDA Commissioner Marty Makary after a stormy period for the regulator that included clashes over vaping, abortion and drug policy. A1

◆ The Trump administration's attempts to shrug off exchanges of fire with Iran deepened Arab Gulf states' concerns that any deal to end the war will expose them to future conflict with a vengeful Iran. A8

◆ The CDC is coordinating with the World Health Organization to help global authorities contain a hantavirus outbreak aboard a cruise ship. A6

◆ Secretary of State Marco Rubio discussed NATO's future after meeting Pope Leo XIV and Italian Prime Minister Giorgia Meloni on their home turf. A7

◆ Britain's anti-immigration Reform U.K. party notched big gains in local elections that are set to hand the ruling Labour Party one of its worst results in history. A10

◆ The fight between Disney's ABC and the FCC escalated as the network accused the agency of potential First Amendment violations. A3

PEGGY NOONAN

Is America still making Ted Turners? A15

CONTENTS Markets..... B10
Books..... C7-12 Obituaries..... C6
Business & Finance... B9 Opinion..... A13-15
Culture..... D6 Sports..... A12
Food..... D8-9 Style & Fashion D2-4
From Page One... A11 U.S. News... A2-4,6
Heard on Street... B12 World News... A7-8,10

© 2026 Dow Jones & Company, Inc.
All Rights Reserved

Broad U.S. Hiring Tops Forecasts

Employers in April added 115,000 jobs as health, leisure and retail drove gains

By CHAO DENG
AND HARRIET TORRY

The U.S. job market blew past expectations again in April, buoyed by gains across industries including retail, transportation and warehousing, and healthcare.

The American economy

added 115,000 jobs in April, the Labor Department said Friday, far exceeding expectations and a sign that the labor market remained resilient so far in the face of the Iran war.

The monthly increase was down from a net gain of 185,000 in March. But it was much better than the 55,000 jobs that analysts polled by The Wall Street Journal had expected to see for April.

The unemployment rate stayed unchanged at 4.3%, as economists had expected.

The April report, coming after strong jobs gains in March, shows how the labor market is holding up better this year than last. While healthcare is still leading the way in job gains, other sectors appear to be picking up.

"Businesses are seeing conditions stabilizing, and they have weathered the tariffs, so many are hiring," said Gus

Please turn to page A2

◆ How to make sense of this strange job market..... A2
◆ Consumer sentiment falls to record low..... A2

Nonfarm payrolls, change from a month earlier

Note: Seasonally adjusted
Source: Labor Department

Russia and Ukraine Agree to Truce for Holiday

NOD TO THE PAST: Dancers take part in the Ball of Victory in St. Petersburg on Friday to celebrate the Allies' defeat of Nazi Germany in 1945. Russia and Ukraine agreed to a three-day cease-fire starting Saturday, when Russia observes Victory Day. A8

Apple, Intel Set Chip-Making Deal

By ROBBIE WHELAN
AND ROLFE WINKLER

Apple and Intel have reached a preliminary agreement for Intel to manufacture some of the chips that power Apple devices, according to people familiar with the matter.

Intensive talks between the two companies have been going on for more than a year, and the two sides hammered out a formal deal in recent months, these people said. Bloomberg News previously reported the talks. It is still unclear which Apple products Intel would make chips for, these people said. Apple ships more than 200 million iPhones a year as well as millions of iPads and Mac computers.

Representatives for Apple and Intel declined to comment.

Intel has two main business lines: designing chips and manufacturing them—both its own designs and external customers'—in its Intel Foundry unit. Both businesses had been underperforming for years before Lip-Bu Tan took over as chief executive last spring vowing to revitalize them.

The Trump administration last summer struck a deal to convert nearly $9 billion in federal grants into Intel stock, giving the U.S. government a 10% stake in the chip maker. It played a key role in bringing

Please turn to page A6

Virginia's Electoral Map Plan Thwarted

By LOUISE RADNOFSKY
AND TERELL WRIGHT

Virginia's highest court threw out Democrats' effort to draw more blue-leaning seats ahead of the midterm elections, capping a series of developments favoring Republicans as they try to hang onto their narrow majority in the House this fall.

In a 4-3 decision Friday, the Virginia Supreme Court found the legislative process used to advance the new map violated the state's constitution, which "incurably taints the resulting referendum vote and nullifies its legal efficacy." The new map had been recently approved by state voters after a campaign with tens of millions of dollars of advertising deployed on each side.

The ruling blocked Democrats' push to add as many as four Democratic-leaning seats in Virginia, which is now represented by six Democrats and five Republicans. The current map will be left in place for the 2026 midterms rather than the 10-1 edge Democrats sought.

Late Friday, Democratic state officials asked for the state court to stay implementing its ruling, saying they planned to file an emergency petition with the U.S. Supreme Court.

Please turn to page A4

EXCHANGE

A VIRAL STORM

The banker behind the sexual-assault suit captivating Wall Street. B1

Broadway Has a Problem: Audiences Won't Stop Laughing

Even during serious moments, theatergoers are howling like they're at a comedy show

By MAX KUTNER

Audiences couldn't stop laughing during parts of a recent performance of "Gruesome Playground Injuries." The off-Broadway production dealt with addiction, loss, self-harm and, as the title suggests, injuries.

"Job," a Broadway play about mental illness, violence, sexual abuse and trauma, received a similar reaction. At last year's staging of "A Streetcar Named Desire" with Paul Mescal, theatergoers were positively tickled as

Please turn to page A11

Face off

Trump Poised to Oust FDA Head

By LIZ ESSLEY WHYTE
AND JOSH DAWSEY

WASHINGTON—President Trump has signed off on a plan to fire Food and Drug Administration Commissioner Marty Makary, according to people familiar with the matter, following a tumultuous period for the regulator that included clashes over vaping, abortion and drug policy.

Makary, a former Johns Hopkins surgeon who became a frequent Make America Healthy Again surrogate on television news programs, is seen by other top administration leaders as struggling to manage his agency, sparring frequently with health department officials and at times the White House. His tenure has also been dogged by the after-effects of DOGE-led layoffs and rapid turnover in the FDA's leadership ranks.

He would become the latest top lieutenant fired under

Health and Human Services Secretary Robert F. Kennedy Jr. since the ouster of Centers for Disease Control and Prevention Director Susan Monarez last summer and the February removal of HHS Deputy Secretary Jim O'Neill.

Asked late Friday about Makary's possible departure, Trump said: "I know nothing about it."

Trump's plan isn't yet final and could change. "President

Please turn to page A4

Rupert Murdoch Blitzes the NFL

Fox founder lobbies for broadcasters as streamers encroach

Rupert Murdoch had a pressing matter to raise when he and his top lieutenants dined at the White House in February.

By Dana Mattioli, Josh Dawsey,
Andrew Beaton and Joe Flint

The National Football League was already by far the richest game in town, but it wanted more. The league was angling to re-open existing media deals, potentially giving deep-pocketed streamers a chance to make even more inroads into America's most popular sport. Murdoch's Fox network, the smallest of the NFL's partners, would have to pay up or risk losing its whole franchise to the likes of Amazon and YouTube.

At the dinner, Murdoch warned Trump that if streamers gained rights to more games, it would kill broadcast networks, a person familiar with the evening's events said. Trump listened to the concerns and asked questions about the business, the person said.

It was a bold play call, even for a media titan known for making them. Fox's fear of losing games created a highly unusual situation where Murdoch was seeking to stir up trouble for a partner it pays billions, fraying

Please turn to page A11