

How sneaky fat jab trick A-listers swear by got me through party season

BY NADINE DORRIES

SEE PAGES
18-19

A&E IN CRISIS AS FLU SPIKES

String of hospitals declare 'critical incidents' ++ Infected patients take up 5,000 beds a day ++ Up to 50-hour waits to be admitted

By Shaun Wooller, James Tozer
and Andy Dolan

MORE than a dozen hospitals have declared 'critical incidents' as the flu outbreak worsens.

Health leaders last night warned the NHS is facing 'exceptionally high demand' – with the number of cases already around double last year's peak.

Around 5,000 beds a day are taken up by patients infected with the virus and officials expect the crisis to deepen this week as children return to school after the Christmas holiday.

Patients have been forced to wait up to 50 hours in A&E before finally being admitted to wards.

And queues of ambulances up to 18 deep have formed outside hospitals as they wait hours to drop off arrivals, leaving them unable to respond to other 999 calls.

Vowing to make improvements, Health Secretary Wes Streeting admitted he was 'distressed and ashamed' to see the situation sick Britons find themselves in.

Meanwhile, some medical staff have been ordered to start wearing masks again in an attempt to stem the spread of infections, and hospitals are imposing tighter restrictions

Turn to Page 2

Show of affection: Kylie Jenner and Timothee Chalamet at the Globes

Kiss that's enraged fans
who thought Timothee Chalamet was too cool for a Kardashian!

SEE PAGES 22-23