

EXCLUSIVE BOOK SERIALISATION

Life with and without my Hairy Biker

by Dave's widow Lili

ALL-OUT WAR

Attack: An explosion in Tel Aviv last night

- Iran launches ballistic missiles at Tel Aviv in revenge for Israeli blitz
- Defiant Israel vows 'more is on way' after strike on nuclear plants
- Trump warns Iranians to make a deal 'before there's nothing left'

ISRAEL and Iran were heading for all-out war last night.

As Donald Trump predicted a 'slaughter' unless Tehran scraps its nuclear programme, Iranian missiles exploded in

By Mark Nicol, Jason Groves and Natalie Lisbona

Tel Aviv and sirens rang out in cities across Israel.

At least 40 Israeli casualties were reported as Iran claimed to have launched 'hundreds' of missiles towards its enemy. Israel denied Iranian claims that it shot down two jets and captured a pilot.

Hundreds of thousands of Israelis were ordered to take cover in shelters after the country's waves of attacks on Iran. Israel's onslaught

Turn to Page Four