RTA-Dubai Police initiative targets unsafe riding across cycling tracks, roads

DUBAI

Gulf News Report

Authorities will focus on violations such as riding outside designated tracks, exceeding speed limits, failing to wear helmets and protective gear, reckless driving, and carrying passengers on electric scooters.

Offenders may face fines, and non-compliant vehicles can be impounded in coordination with Emirates Auction.

Key areas

Key areas of focus include Jumeirah Beach Track, Mohammed Bin Rashid Boulevard, Dubai Water Canal, Business Bay, Dubai Marina, and several densely populated neighbourhoods such as Al Karama and Al Muraqqabat.

Hussain Al Banna, CEO of the Traffic and Roads Agency at RTA, said the initiative strengthens collaboration with Dubai Police and supports the city's broader vision for safe and innovative transport. He emphasised that the move combines infrastructure development with enforcement to encourage responsible riding and enhance overall traffic safety.

Major General Saif Muhair Al Mazrouei of Dubai Police highlighted that the unit will help reduce unsafe practices and reinforce adherence to traffic laws among personal mobility users.

Authorities are urging riders to review safety guidelines, track rules, and the list of violations available on the RTA website, as Dubai continues to expand its smart and sustainable mobility network.

Emirates A380 gets Starlink high-speed Wi-Fi upgrade

First aircraft completes installation in UK

DUBAI

BY BALARAM MENON
Senior Web Editor

Airbus A380 operated by Emirates has entered a new phase of in-flight connectivity after becoming the first of its kind to be fitted with next-generation Starlink Wi-Fi.

The upgrade marks a major step forward for the airline's on-board services, moving from basic connectivity to high-speed Wi-Fi designed to support streaming, browsing and work at cruising altitude. The first A380 fitted with Starlink completed its installation and certification in Newquay, UK, before returning to Dubai this week. The aircraft is the first in the Emirates fleet to feature the new system, which will now be rolled out across more A380s through 2026.

The new system uses three antennas installed on each A380, significantly boosting performance compared to earlier on-board Wi-Fi systems.

Emirates said the upgrade delivers a dramatic increase in bandwidth, allowing passengers to use the internet in a way similar to home.

IRANIAN AGGRESSION IN GCC PREMEDITATED: GARGASH

UAE official calls for reassessment of relations

BY KHITAM AL AMIR
Chief News Editor

Dr Anwar Gargash, Diplomatic Adviser to the UAE President, said the recent Iranian aggression was severe, deliberate, and calculated, reflecting prior planning rather than a momentary escalation. He stressed that its scale and execution confirm that this was not an isolated decision, but a strategic move carried out despite sustained Gulf efforts to de-escalate and avoid confrontation, including a unified position not to facilitate any action against Iran.

Dr Gargash described the escalation as a decisive turning point for the region, unprecedented in both scale and impact, marking a clear break from previous patterns of engagement. He noted that while Gulf states had long pursued policies of containment, recent developments have exposed the limits of that approach and reinforced the seriousness of the threat posed by Iran.

Re-evaluating alliances

Dr Gargash was speaking during a panel discussion titled "Re-evaluating Alliances in Times of Tension" at the Gulf Creators event, organised by the UAE Government Media Office at Atlantis The Palm, Dubai. The event brought together more than 1,000 Gulf media professionals, thinkers, and content creators.

Dr Gargash said GCC cohesion during the recent escalation fell

IF IRAN WANTS TO TALK, LET THEM CALL: TRUMP

US President Donald Trump said Iran must take the lead if it wants to resume negotiations, telling Fox News that if they want "they can call us," even as backchannel diplomacy continues amid stalled ceasefire talks. Tehran has floated a new proposal centred on reopening the Strait of Hormuz and ending the US naval blockade, while pushing nuclear negotiations to a later stage. The offer, passed through Pakistan, outlines red lines on nuclear issues and control of the strategic waterway.

Iran's Foreign Minister Abbas Araghchi, speaking in Moscow, blamed Washington's "excessive demands" for derailing earlier talks, while Russian President Vladimir Putin pledged to do "everything" to support peace efforts. Meanwhile, Iranian officials said armed forces could be formally tasked with regulating passage through the Strait of Hormuz.

to one of its lowest levels. He also noted that the Arab League's response fell short of expectations.

He added that the escalation has exposed deeper structural challenges, including fragmentation in Arab national security and diverging regional priorities. It has also underscored the continued importance of strategic alliances, particularly the role of the United States in supporting regional stability and protecting shared interests.

Dr Gargash said recent developments have reinforced the view that Iran can no longer be addressed through traditional containment alone.

He stressed that the regional landscape will not return to its previous state, and that a shift of this magnitude requires a rational, realistic, and comprehensive reassessment of Gulf relations. Dr Gargash warned that the fallout has created a deep and enduring crisis of confidence that will shape regional dynamics for decades, requiring a more decisive and long-term approach to safeguarding Gulf interests.

National interests

Dr Gargash emphasised that this reassessment must be grounded in national interests and conducted with strategic discipline. He stressed the importance of protecting the region's security and future from external influence, particularly attempts to shape its stability through ideological agendas.

He added that recent developments have fundamentally reshaped regional perceptions and reinforced the need to build a clear and coherent Gulf narrative. Dr Gargash concluded that while conflict carries costs, Gulf countries have demonstrated resilience and institutional strength.
