LABOUR TO RELEASE RAPISTS & KILLERS EARLIER

LABOUR is set to free killers and rapists from jail earlier under a new soft-justice masterplan.

The Government's sentencing review was last night savaged by victims and senior police officers, while the Tories dubbed it a 'recipe for a crimewave'.

The plan contains a raft of measures to slash sentences served by prisoners – from shoplifters to killers – by up to a third. Justice Secretary Shabana Mahmood, who commissioned the review to free up space in overcrowded prisons, is poised to become the weakest law and order minister in history by allowing thousands more criminals a year to dodge jail completely.

Most of the plan has already been
