Stranded US astronauts closer to return as new crew arrives at ISS

Williams and Wilmore will head back to Earth no earlier than March 19

KENNEDY SPACE CENTRE, US

SpaceX's Dragon capsule successfully docked with the International Space Station early yesterday morning, carrying a new crew that would allow marooned astronauts Butch Wilmore and Sunita Williams to finally return home.

The capsule docked at 12:04am New York time, SpaceX said on its website, about 29 hours after the company's Falcon 9 rocket launched the craft and crew from Nasa's Kennedy Space Centre in Florida. The mission crew has two Nasa astronauts, Anne McClain and Nichole Ayers, as well as Japanese astronaut Takuya Onishi and Russian cosmonaut Kirill Peskov.

The Crew-10 astronauts who arrived at the station must go through a roughly two-day handover period before the current crew, which includes Wilmore and Williams, can depart.

Nasa maintains a continuous, rotating presence on the ISS to help manage the station's operations and research. That means the Crew-10 astronauts must arrive at the station and go through a roughly two-day handover period before the current crew, which includes Wilmore and Williams, can depart.

Prolonged stay

Then, Williams and Wilmore are slated to board a capsule already docked at the station and head back to Earth with other crew members no earlier than March 19.

Wilmore and Williams arrived at the ISS last June on a Boeing Co. Starliner spacecraft and were initially slated to stay for about a week. But after Starliner suffered technical difficulties on the journey there, Nasa declared that it was too risky to bring the astronauts home on the craft.

Instead, the space agency stated that the astronauts would ride back to Earth on a SpaceX craft, extending Wilmore and Williams' stay for about nine months.

Dubai records more than 2m radar violations in 2024

accidents were due to sudden lane changes

Over two million traffic violations were caught by radars in Dubai in 2024, according to the UAE ministry of Interior.

The ministry's latest data highlights key issues in road safety and driver behaviour, depicting the challenges faced by the city in ensuring the safety of its residents.

The statistics show that sudden lane changes were the leading cause of traffic accidents in the city, resulting in 676 accidents, with drivers not maintaining a safe distance contributing to 518 incidents.

The ministry said motorists speeding at over 30km/h contributed to 2,070,338 violations. There were 154,948 instances of improper parking and 129,263 violations regarding failure to adhere to traffic signs and road regulations during the year.

Negligence and lack of attention were also identified as major contributing factors, alongside reckless behaviours such as crossing roads in non-designated areas, jumping red lights, reversing in a hazardous manner and overtaking in restricted areas.

In response to these alarming figures, the Dubai Police General Command, through the General Traffic Department, has been taking proactive steps to improve road safety and raise awareness across the community.

US kills Houthi leaders, puts Iran on notice

TRUMP WARNS 'HELL WILL RAIN DOWN ON' YEMEN MILITANTS IF SHIPS HIT

SANA'A

US strikes killed "multiple" Houthi leaders in Yemen, the White House said yesterday, adding Iran was "put on notice" to stop backing the rebel group and its attacks on Red Sea shipping.

The air strikes Saturday "actually targeted multiple Houthi leaders and took them out," National Security Advisor Michael Waltz told ABC News. "We just hit them with overwhelming force and put Iran on notice that enough is enough," he said separately on Fox News.

The strikes killed 31 people, the rebels said yesterday, with US president Donald Trump warning "hell will rain down upon" the Iran-backed group if it did not stop attacking shipping. The Houthis, who have attacked Israel and Red Sea shipping throughout the Gaza war, said children were among those killed.

101 wounded

An AFP photographer in the rebel-held capital Sana'a heard explosions and saw plumes of smoke rising. Attacks on Sana'a, as well as on areas in Saada, Al Bayda and Radaa, killed at least 31 people and wounded 101,

Support for the Houthi terrorists must end immediately! [You] will be held fully accountable for any continued threats.

Donald Trump | US President, in warning to Iran

"most of whom were children and women", Houthi health ministry spokesperson Anis Al-Asbahi said.

Trump, in a post on social media, said: "To all Houthi terrorists, your time is up, and your attacks must stop, starting today. If they don't, hell will rain down upon you like nothing you have ever seen before!" Trump also issued a stern warning to the group's main backer. "To Iran: Support for the Houthi terrorists must end immediately!" he said, adding it would be held "fully accountable" for any continued threats.

The Houthis vowed the strikes "will not pass without response", while Iran's top diplomat Abbas Araghchi condemned the deaths and said Washington had "no authority" to dictate Tehran's foreign policy.
